COUNTY BOARD TAKES NO ACTION ON SLAYBAUGH'S OFFER TO RETIRE

The Adams County School Board took no immediate action Monday evening when Superintendent of Schools J. Floyd Slaybaugh recalled to the group his statement made in 1950 that he planned to resign this month.

He asked clarification of his official status in the light of the "gentlemen's agreement" made April 11, 1950, at the county school directors' convention at which he was elected to the current term of office.

At that time he told the directors he planned to retire in July, 1953. The current term will end in 11 months—June 30, 1954.

Ready for Picnic-Meeting
Slaybaugh said he called the board's attention to his statement of 1950 and would abide by the board's decision on whether he should continue in office until the end of his term, or would be permitted to carry out his original intention of retiring from the superintendency. If the board wished, he added, he could serve out the term, or would return at such time as they may see fit.

The board reached no conclusion after going into a lengthy executive committee session and then entered on the minutes of the meeting a statement that he had received Superintendent Slaybaugh's report and would "take no immediate action."

Slaybaugh reported all in readiness for the annual school directors' convention picnic to be held at the South Mountain Fairgrounds August 6.

Royce M. Martin, vice president of the county school board, will be presiding officer at the morning session, scheduled to start at 10:30 o'clock that morning with County Board President Luther M. Lacy.

SENATOR TAFT HAS SETBACK

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft's physical condition "has deteriorated," New York Hospital announced today.

The Ohio Republican recently underwent an exploratory operation of the abdominal wall to investigate a hip ailment.

The announcement was the first that did not take an optimistic view of his condition.

It had been announced last week that he would return to Washington on Wednesday. A statement from the hospital yesterday said only that his departure would be delayed.

"Sen. Taft's condition has deteriorated somewhat during the last 24 hours," the hospital bulletin said today.

Nothing New On Skeleton Search

Trooper Hiram J. Brown of the Maryland State Police, stationed at Thurmont, said today there are no further developments in his investigation of the finding of a human skull Sunday on the Mahlon Masser farm in the Eyles Valley section, west of Emmitsburg.

No additional parts of the skeleton have been located, he said, and the medical examiner's report on the skull is not expected until later in the week.

The possibility that the dog that carried the skull onto the Masser farm may have robbed a cemetery is being checked, Brown said, and graveyards in the area are being examined.

He said police reports do not list any persons missing in that area.

IKE RE-ELECTED TO MEMBERSHIP IN ROTARY CLUB

President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Judge W. C. Sheely and Dr. John Aberly, president emeritus of the local Lutheran Theological Seminary, were re-elected as honorary members of the local Rotary Club at a meeting of the board of directors held following the regular session of the club at the YWCA Monday evening.

Judge Sheely and Dr. Aberly have been honorary members for some years. President Eisenhower first accepted the honorary membership about three years ago while still in Europe as head of the NATO organization there.

The directors also voted to promote information on Pennsylvania and Gettysburg for the Rotarians, Mexico, Rotary Club as part of the local organization's international fellowship program. The club will send a copy of the Pennsylvania History written by Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, professor of history at Gettysburg College, and a copy of the battlefield book written by Dr. Frederick T. Bowers, historian for the National Park here.

Plan Year's Program
Plans of the various committees for the coming year were outlined at a club assembly program.

According to the plans announced, the organization will continue for another year many of the programs initiated during the past several years—the dental health program in the Gettysburg and Upper Adams schools bringing a foreign student to the U. S. for the summer, and having high school students as "honorary" members for one month periods during the school year.

President John D. Teeter presided at the meeting with 54 present. Attorney John MacPhail led group singing. Dr. Kenneth Smock was pianist.

Other Banks Have Air Conditioning

Adams County banks are apparently rapidly being air-conditioned. Monday it was reported that the First National Bank of Gettysburg will become the first bank in the county with air conditioning, which is to be installed there next February.

Later reports show that the Farmers' and Merchants' of New Oxford have air-conditioning a year ago and Littlestown, Benderville and Ardenville banks have also previously installed air conditioning. Benderville in 1949 and Ardenville in 1948.

By SAM SUMMERLIN
MUNSON (AP)—The Allies and Communists agreed today to start exchanging almost 87,000 prisoners of war Aug. 5 and the joint Military Armistice Commission set in motion machinery for enforcing the day-old Korean armistice.

Once the long-awaited prisoner exchange gets under way, the Reds will free about 400 men daily at Pusan, Japan. The U. N. Command said it will deliver about 2,750 daily, including 360 sick and wounded.

Detailed prisoner exchange plans were adopted by the military armistice committee for prisoner exchange as five different truce bodies gathered in Pusan, Japan.

"Walking A Tightrope"
Maj. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, who heads the Allied team on the joint military commission, described the first meeting of the group Tuesday as "like walking a tightrope."

Bryan said the U. N. Command was ready to start exchanging prisoners this week, but he doubted if the Reds would be able to begin that swiftly. The Aug. 5 date was announced later.

The commission meets again at 11 a. m. Wednesday.

These other developments punctuated the first full day of the Korean armistice:

1. Allied and Red forces began pulling back about 1 1/4 miles from the battlefield to create a 2 1/2-mile-wide buffer zone. They blew up front-line fortifications. The U. N. also began evacuating key islands off both North Korean coasts.

CHILD WELFARE SERVICE NEEDS 7 HOMES NOW; AND MORE SOON

The Adams County Child Welfare Services today was seeking seven foster homes for country children—all needed immediately.

Miss Bertie Livermore, county child welfare secretary, said a total of 15 foster homes are needed, but that the need for eight of the homes is not as urgent as is the need for homes for the seven. The children range in age from three to 12. Three boys are between six and 12; three girls between the ages of six and 12 and one Catholic boy is three.

The religion is mentioned because the practice of the child welfare society is to place children in homes of the same religion as that of the child, in so far as possible.

"Little Gentlemen and Ladies"
Miss Livermore pointed out that the county pays these providing foster homes a weekly sum depending on the age of the children involved.

All persons who wish to provide foster homes may specify, if they wish, the sex and approximate age of the child or children for whom they will provide a home. She also added that investigation will have to be made of homes offered as foster homes as the children's interests must be protected and given the best possible.

She added that some of the youngsters are "perhaps a little undernourished, while others are charming, delightful little gentlemen and ladies."

Persons who wish to offer their homes as possible foster homes for the youngsters should call the child welfare services, Gettysburg 495-X, immediately in order that the children can be placed as soon as possible, Miss Livermore said.

Members of the staff include Mrs. Rida Arter, Mrs. L. C. Hamma, Mrs. Gordon Webster, Mrs. Raymond Sheely, Mrs. Robert Dorchman, Miss Mary Rita Redding and Mrs. Hardy Nichols.

Performs Rare Chest Surgery First Time Here

Dr. John T. Szypulski, chest surgeon at the Mont. Alto Sanatorium, recently performed the first chest resection ever accomplished at the Warner Hospital. Local surgeons also participated in the operation.

The operation involved a resection on a cyst of the left lung, necessitating removal of 50 per cent of the upper left lobe. Ailments of this kind are not uncommon and are caused by the formation of a cyst on the outside of the lung, the result of air breaking through, and getting underneath the lung, causing it to swell and form the cyst. The resection aims at removing the cyst and thus the swelling.

Surgery of the chest has attained its present level of success because of the marked advancement of the anesthetic agents which make it possible to operate on the lung while the patient's tissue is being aerated with the proper amount of oxygen through positive pressure breathing. In the operation, anesthesia was administered by the staff anesthesiologist, Dr. W. R. Cadle.

Melvin Dawson, 32, Hanover R. D., who was successfully operated on by Dr. Szypulski on July 18, was released from the hospital today.

Dr. Szypulski also practices chest surgery at Hamburg and Harrisburg.

The victim was an employee of the Howard P. Foley Co., Harrisburg, and was installing electrical fixtures in the factory when the accident happened. The movable scaffolding toppled over, perhaps from the weight of Day and a 40 or 50 pound transformer he was pulling to the top of the scaffolding.

Armies Start Withdrawing From Korean Battlefield

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN
SEOUL (AP)—Allied and Communist armies today began pulling back from the Korean front.

United Nations forces, including South Korean troops, started withdrawing at daylight. Chinese and North Korean Communist units were seen pulling back during the day.

Each side must withdraw two kilometers—about 1 1/4 miles—to form a demilitarized buffer zone across Korea.

Far behind Red Lines, the Allies began evacuating islands off both the east and west coasts of North Korea. The islands had served as radar station points, ground control stations for air strikes against the Communists and for air-sea rescue operations.

Evacuate Isles By Aug. 5
In keeping with the armistice signed Monday, the battlefield withdrawal must be completed by 10 p. m. Thursday. The Allied-held islands must be evacuated by 10 p. m. Aug. 5.

In the early hours of the armistice, no violations or incidents were reported. At the final 8th Army press conference, a staff officer said the last infantry action was a patrol clash at 2:55 a. m. Monday on the eastern front—some 19 hours before the truce became effective.

STARLIPER IS CAPTURED AT MOTHER'S HOME IN MOUNTAINS

The journey of Roy Starliper from Mercersburg to the Adams County jail started Saturday afternoon and, interrupted when Starliper escaped from Sheriff Dorsey J. Schultz Saturday evening near McKnightstown, was completed early this morning.

The 29-year-old Mercersburg R. D. prisoner was apprehended in a closet at the home of his mother on Cove Mountain, between Mercersburg and McConnellsburg, about 11:15 o'clock Monday night. At 12:30 o'clock this morning he was up a cell in the Adams County jail.

Starliper had been arrested Saturday afternoon by Mercersburg Police Chief E. L. McNale on a process issued by the Adams County Court when the Mercersburg R. D. man failed to keep up his support order.

Threatens Sheriff Again
Enroute to the Adams County jail Saturday evening, about 6:15 o'clock, he asked if they might stop to buy some cigarettes, so he would have some while in jail.

The sheriff stopped at the Wilbur Hankey Service Station at the intersection of the new and old Lincoln Highways at McKnightstown to get the cigarettes. As the two men were getting into the Sheriff's car, Starliper ran off. The sheriff, unarmed, caught up with Starliper, who threatened him with a rock, and told the sheriff, "I don't care if I get 20 years, the only way you'll take me back to jail is on a stretch-hymnal and other materials for his work."

Trapped hiding behind his mother's dresses in a closet in the mother's room Monday night, he came out peacefully. When handcuffs were about to be applied, he told the sheriff he didn't need to put those on: "I've stopped running."

When the handcuffs were being placed, Starliper said he would "break them over your (the sheriff's) head." But he did not attempt to carry out the threat.

Use Cautious Approach
The search for Starliper, which began when he ran off a second time after the sheriff had caught up with him in the original chase across the fields south of the Hankey Service Station, was continued throughout Sunday and Monday.

Monday evening at about 8:45 o'clock the local sub-station of the state police received a message from the Chambersburg state police sub-station that Starliper was hiding in the attic at his mother's home on Cove Mountain, and asked that the sheriff be notified.

Schultz went to Chambersburg to meet Cpl. Howard Mackart, Pfc. Robert Taylor and Pfc. Michael Sabol of the Chambersburg State Police. The four went to Cove Mountain. They parked their cars at a fork in the road and then continued for about a half-mile up a lane at the end of which the Starliper home, a large frame structure, stands. The area is in heavily wooded mountains, the sheriff said.

COUNTY BOARD TAKES NO ACTION ON SLAYBAUGH'S OFFER TO RETIRE

The Adams County School Board took no immediate action Monday evening when Superintendent of Schools J. Floyd Slaybaugh recalled to the group his statement made in 1950 that he planned to resign this month.

He asked clarification of his official status in the light of the "gentlemen's agreement" made April 11, 1950, at the county school directors' convention at which he was elected to the current term of office.

At that time he told the directors he planned to retire in July, 1953. The current term will end in 11 months—June 30, 1954.

Ready for Picnic-Meeting
Slaybaugh said he called the board's attention to his statement of 1950 and would abide by the board's decision on whether he should continue in office until the end of his term, or would be permitted to carry out his original intention of retiring from the superintendency. If the board wished, he added, he could serve out the term, or would retire at such time as they may see fit.

The board reached no conclusion after going into a lengthy executive committee session and then entered on the minutes of the meeting a statement that they had received Superintendent Slaybaugh's report and would "take no immediate action."

Slaybaugh reported all in readiness for the annual school directors' convention-picnic to be held at the South Mountain Fairgrounds August 6.

Roy M. Martin, vice president of the county school board, will be presiding officer at the morning session, scheduled to start at 10:30 o'clock that morning with County Board President Luther M. Lady.

"Sen. Taft's condition has deteriorated somewhat during the last 24 hours," the hospital bulletin said today.

Nothing New On Skeleton Search

Trooper Hiram J. Brown of the Maryland State Police, stationed at Thurmont, said today there are no further developments in his investigation of the finding of a human skull Sunday on the Mahlon Messer farm in the Eyler Valley section, west of Emmitsburg.

No additional parts of the skeleton have been located, he said, and the medical examiner's report on the skull is not expected until later in the week.

The possibility that the dog that carried the skull onto the Messer farm may have robbed a cemetery is being checked, Brown said, and graveyards in the area are being examined.

He said police reports do not list any persons missing in that area.

The directors also voted to provide information on Pennsylvania and Gettysburg for the Reynosa, Mexico, Rotary Club as part of the local organization's international fellowship program. The club will send a copy of the Pennsylvania History written by Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, professor of history at Gettysburg College, and a copy of the battlefield book written by Dr. Frederick Tilberg, historian for the National Park here.

Plans of the various committees for the coming year were outlined at a club assembly program.

S. for the summer, and having high school students as "honorary" members for one month periods during the school year.

President John D. Teeter presided at the meeting with 54 present. Attorney John MacPhail led group singing. Dr. Kenneth Smoke was pianist.

CHILD WELFARE SERVICE NEEDS 7 HOMES NOW; AND MORE SOON

The Adams County Child Welfare Services today was seeking seven foster homes for county children—all needed immediately.

Miss Bettie Livermore, county child welfare secretary, said a total of 15 foster homes are needed, but that the need for eight of the homes is not as urgent as is the need for homes for the seven. The children range in age from three to 12. Three boys are between six and 12; three girls between the ages of six and 12 and one Catholic boy is three.

The religion is mentioned because the practice of the child welfare society is to place children in homes of the same religion as that of the child, in so far as possible.

"Little Gentlemen and Ladies"
Miss Livermore pointed out that the county pays those providing foster homes a weekly sum depending on the age of the children involved.

All persons who wish to provide foster homes may specify, if they wish, the sex and approximate age of the child or children for whom they will provide a home. She also added that investigation will have to be made of homes offered as foster homes as the children's interests must be protected and given the best homes possible.

She added that some of the youngsters are "perhaps a little undisciplined, while others are charming, delightful little gentlemen and ladies."

Persons who wish to offer their homes as possible foster homes for the youngsters should call the child welfare services, Gettysburg 495-X, immediately in order that the children can be placed as soon as possible, Miss Livermore said.

PERFORMS RARE CHEST SURGERY FIRST TIME HERE

Dr. John T. Szypulski, chest surgeon at the Mont Alto Sanatorium, recently performed the first chest resection ever accomplished at the Warner Hospital. Local surgeons also participated in the operation.

The operation involved a resection on a cyst of the left lung, necessitating removal of 50 per cent of the upper left lobe. Ailments of this kind are not uncommon and are caused by the formation of a cyst on the outside of the lung, the result of air breaking through and getting underneath the lung causing it to swell and form the cyst. The resection aims at removing the cyst and thus the swelling.

Surgery of the chest has attained its present level of success because of the marked advancement of the anesthetic agents which make it possible to operate on the lung while the patient's tissue is being aerated with the proper amount of oxygen through positive pressure breathing. In the operation, anesthetic was administered by the staff anesthesiologist, Dr. W. R. Cadle.

Melvin Dawson, 32, Hanover R. D., who was successfully operated on by Dr. Szypulski on July 18, was released from the hospital today.

Dr. Szypulski also practices chest surgery at Hamburg and Harrisburg.

The victim was an employee of the Howard P. Foley Co., Harrisburg, and was installing electrical fixtures in the factory when the accident happened. The movable scaffolding toppled over, perhaps from the weight of Day and a 40 or 50 pound transformer he was pulling to the top of the scaffolding.

Armies Start Withdrawing From Korean Battlefront
By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN
SEOUL (AP)—Allied and Communist armies today began pulling back from the front line—across the shell-pocked Korean front.

United Nations forces, including South Korean troops, started withdrawing at daybreak. Chinese and North Korean Communist units were seen pulling back during the day.

Each side must withdraw two kilometers — about 1 1/4 miles — to form a demilitarized buffer zone across Korea.

Far behind Red lines, the Allies began evacuating islands off both the east and west coasts of North Korea. The islands had served as radar station points, ground control stations for air strikes against the Communists and for air-sea rescue operations.

Evacuate Isles By Aug. 5
In keeping with the armistice signed Monday, the battlefront withdrawal must be completed by 10 p. m. Thursday. The Allied-held islands must be evacuated by 10 p. m. Aug. 5.

In the early hours of the armistice no violations or incidents were reported. At the final 8th Army briefing of war correspondents, a staff officer said the last infantry action was a patrol clash at 2:55 a. m. Monday on the eastern front — some 19 hours before the truce became effective.

STARLIPER IS CAPTURED AT MOTHER'S HOME IN MOUNTAINS

The journey of Roy Starliper from Mercersburg to the Adams County jail started Saturday afternoon and, interrupted when Starliper escaped from Sheriff Dorsey J. Schultz Saturday evening near McKnightstown, was completed early this morning.

The 29-year-old Mercersburg R. D. prisoner was apprehended in a closet at the home of his mother on Cove Mountain, between Mercersburg and McConnellsburg, about 11:15 o'clock Monday night. At 12:30 o'clock this morning he was in a cell in the Adams County jail.

Starliper had been arrested Saturday afternoon by Mercersburg Police Chief E. L. McNale on a process issued by the Adams County Court when the Mercersburg R. D. man failed to keep up his support order.

Threatens Sheriff Again
Enroute with Sheriff Schultz to the Adams County jail Saturday evening, about 6:15 o'clock, he asked if they might stop to buy some cigarettes, so he would have some while in jail.

The sheriff stopped at the Wilbur Hankey Service Station at the intersection of the new and old Lincoln Highways at McKnightstown to get the cigarettes. As the two men were getting into Shultz's car, Starliper ran off. The sheriff, unarmed, caught up with Starliper, who threatened him with a rock, and told the sheriff, "I don't care if I get 20 years, the only way you'll take me back to jail is on a stretch-er."

Trapped hiding behind his mother's dresses in a closet in the mother's room Monday night, he came out peacefully. When handcuffs were about to be applied, he told the sheriff he didn't need to put those on: "I've stopped running."

When the handcuffs were being placed, Starliper said he would "break them over your (the sheriff's) head." But he did not attempt to carry out the threat.

Use Cautious Approach
The search for Starliper, which began when he ran off a second time after the sheriff had caught up with him in the original chase across the fields south of the Hankey Service Station, was continued throughout Sunday and Monday.

Monday evening at about 8:45 o'clock the local sub-station of the state police received a message from the Chambersburg state police sub-station that Starliper was hiding in the attic at his mother's home on Cove Mountain, and asked that the sheriff be notified.

Schultz went to Chambersburg to meet Cpl. Howard Mackert, Pfc. Robert Taylor and Pfc. Michael Sabol of the Chambersburg State Police. The four went to Cove Mountain. They parked their cars at a fork in the road and then continued for about a half-mile up a lane at the end of which the Starliper home, a large frame structure, stands. The area is in heavily wooded mountains, the sheriff said.

Arouse Mother

MANIAC KILLS SECOND DRIVER IN TRUCK CAB

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The second truck driver in three days was shot to death while he slept early today on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

The latest victim—Harry Franklin Pitts, 39, of Bowling Green, Va.—was not robbed. State Police Cpl. William Smith declared: "There's a maniac loose on the turnpike."

An intense manhunt developed over the length of the super highway and even on nearby roads. Scene of the slaying was three miles west of the Laurel Hill tunnel and about five miles east of Donegal.

One Shot Saturday

Only last Saturday, Lester B. Woodward, 30, of Duncannon near Harrisburg, was shot to death while asleep in the cab of his truck. State police said then that robbery apparently was the motive.

Such violence has not developed in the 15 years since opening of the famed turnpike. Hundreds of thousands of truck drivers have pulled to the side of the highway for naps without being molested. With the first word of the latest shooting—about 6 a. m.—state police clamped shut all interchanges to traffic moving off the pike.

Then patrols were sent to each interchange and traffic was permitted to move off the turnpike under the closest scrutiny.

At the Perry interchange, two inspecting troopers from the Gibsons barracks not only looked over all departing cars but also searched all whose tickets showed they entered the pike before 6:30 a. m.

In a car occupied by three men from Florida they found a .22 pistol in the glove compartment and shells for the gun in the trunk.

In the car of a Pittsburgh businessman, the police turned up a .25 automatic in the trunk. The driver explained it had been there since a hunting trip.

Both autos and occupants were held at the interchange until other troopers arrived to take them to the Gibsons barracks.

The story was much the same all along the pike.

Anyone looking the least bit suspicious was searched thoroughly. At the Irwin interchange, five youths who said they were returning from a visit to Richmond were ordered out and frisked from head to toe. Their car also was given a minute going-over.

DE GASPERI HAS TO RESIGN POST

ROME (AP)—Premier Alcide De Gasperi's eighth government fell today on a no confidence vote.

It was the first time that the 72-year-old Christian Democrat leader suffered such defeat since he took the reins of Italy's government on Dec. 10, 1955.

The vote was 282 to 263 against De Gasperi. There were howls of delight from the Communist and extreme left as the ballot was announced in the Chamber of Deputies.

Now De Gasperi has to submit to President Luigi Einaudi the formal resignation of the government he reluctantly agreed to form two weeks ago following the national elections. The constitution requires that the government have the confidence of both the Chamber and the Senate.

REDS CONTINUE PROPAGANDA IN MOSCOW PAPER

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

MOSCOW (AP)—The Communist party newspaper Pravda declared today the signing of the Korean armistice proves that even the most complex current international problems can be settled peacefully.

In a lead editorial, Pravda repeated Soviet charges that American aggression started the war and declared the Russians always had been working for peace. It also blamed the United States for "dragging out" the armistice talks and for South Korean objections to the truce.

The paper warned that American officials bear responsibility for seeing that the South Koreans do not violate the armistice.

Same Old Song

The Communist party organ, with other Soviet newspapers, reprinted Premier Georgi Malenkov's promise to North Korea of "every possible aid" in rebuilding war damage and reuniting the two halves of the divided country.

The Soviet leader's pledge, made in a telegram to North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung, hailed the armistice as "great victory for the Korean and Chinese Peoples' Volunteers."

Malenkov's pledge did not explain just what aid the Soviets and their allies will give the North Koreans. President Eisenhower asked Congress yesterday to appropriate 200 million dollars as a first grant from more than one billion dollars the United States probably would spend to help rehabilitate South Korea.)

Eat Candy Bars To Celebrate Truce

CENTRAL FRONT, Korea, (AP)—A Shamokin, Pa., soldier and his buddies celebrate the Korean cease fire like kids—eating candy bars.

On a hill northeast of Kumhwa, Cpl. Benjamin Snyder of Shamokin, R. 2 relaxed for the first time since a murderous Communist artillery barrage had heralded approach of the cease fire deadline.

Then, the first thing the men returned to was a mail package addressed to a sergeant.

It was full of candy bars, and they were passed out generously—although the sergeant wasn't around at the time. He would find out later.

STARLIPER IS

but the attic window had been removed. Mackert and the sheriff went to the front door while the other two policemen went around the house in case Starlipper attempted an escape.

Cpl. Mackert knocked on the door and after a time Mrs. Starlipper answered from a second floor bedroom window. Told that it was the police and asked if Roy Starlipper was about, the mother told Mackert and Schultz that she had not seen her son since Saturday, the sheriff reported.

Mackert said he would have to search the house and Mrs. Starlipper said she would dress and let the officers in.

Hid Among Dresses

A search of the downstairs revealed no one. Schultz and Mackert went to the second floor. Schultz taking one bedroom and Mackert another. Schultz opened the door to the closet in the bedroom and Starlipper's khaki pants gave him away. In the closet were women's clothes, but below one of the dark dresses extended about 12 inches of khaki trousers.

The sheriff pulled aside the dresses and there stood Starlipper in the rear of the closet, his head thrown back so it would be in darkness and apparently straining every muscle to keep quiet.

Mackert, who had gone to the attic in the meantime, was called back and the sheriff and state policeman took Starlipper into custody. The ex-fugitive is confined to a cell separate from the other prisoners at the county jail today. He has no cigarettes and the sheriff declined to get him any.

To Face New Charges

Starlipper told the sheriff after he ran away from Schultz a second time. In a field near the Derr farm near McKnightstown Station, that he had wandered about for a time, then followed the railroad into the mountains, Starlipper said he saw the brooder house fire near Orrtanna to which Fairfield firemen were called early Sunday morning. Later, he said, he reached a road and hitched a ride on a truck to Hagerstown, then got a ride to his home.

Charges of jail breach and threatening an officer will be brought by Sheriff Schultz against Starlipper before a local justice of the peace, probably later today. The sheriff today expressed his appreciation to the state police at Gettysburg and Chambersburg for their cooperation.

103 AT CROUSE REUNION SUNDAY

Nearly descendants of the late Charles A. and Annie Mower Crouse and 13 visitors enjoyed the annual Crouse reunion held on Sunday at Crouse's Pool, near town, along the Littlestown-Taneytown road. Relatives were present from Columbia, Hanover, Littlestown, Kingsdale, York, Gettysburg, Taneytown, Md., and Woodbridge, Va. A family lunch took place at noon and in the evening, there was corn on the cob, watermelon and ice cream for all. Those in attendance enjoyed horseshoe pitching, softball, basketball and swimming.

A brief business meeting followed the luncheon, with greetings from the president, Walter P. Crouse, at whose place the reunion was held. Reports were heard from Mrs. Esther Crouse Feaser and Robert L. Crouse, Jr. It was decided to continue having both the annual summer picnic at the pool and the annual winter family party. A committee composed of Robert L. Crouse, chairman, Jack Crouse, Fred Crouse and Mrs. Kay Crouse Senz was appointed to arrange for the 1953 winter party. Paul C. Crouse, Columbia, was selected as the new president of the clan and Mrs. Feaser and R. L. Crouse Jr. retain their offices of secretary and treasurer.

A rolling pin contest was conducted in the evening; the daughters and daughters-in-law of the late Mr. and Mrs. Crouse competed first and Mrs. Pauline Crouse, near Gettysburg, was the winner of the granddaughters and granddaughters-in-law. Mrs. Robert L. Crouse Jr., Littlestown, was the winner. The sons and sons-in-law also joined the contest, with John Crouse, Columbia, as the winner and of the grandsons and grandsons-in-law, Irvin Conover, Two Taverns, was winner.

Snarled Messages And Some Printing Difficulties Have Delayed Legislative Finale

HARRISBURG (P)—The General Assembly kept on going today, a day late in its drive to end the long 1953 session.

Printing difficulties and a mixup on messages between the House and Senate thwarted plans to wind up the seven-month session at 2 p. m. yesterday.

Wary lawmakers kept up a fast pace until the early morning hours and gave up for the night for a final session today to dispose of a final legislative odds and ends.

Leaders in both chambers, however, were generally agreed that the 140th regular session of the General Assembly would be completed by midnight.

When the gavel finally falls, the "official" time will still be 2 p. m., EST, Monday. Custodians in both chambers turned over the hands of the clock to maintain the fiction of "official" time.

Remaining Business
About a dozen joint House-Senate conference reports—compromises on legislation on which the two chambers failed to agree—constituted the remaining action facing the lawmakers.

They include:
1. The general appropriations bill to finance ordinary operations of the state government in the current two-year fiscal period. The compromise figure is $823,931,581—a $66,669 increase over the version passed by the Senate and 21½ million more than the House plan.

2. Fixing a 42½ million dollar ceiling on state-aided new school construction financed by the sale of bonds. That's 100 millions more than the previous plan. The conference report also struck out a requirement for a referendum on whether the voters want the 79-year-old constitution revised. If the question is approved, the 1955 Legislature would set up machinery for a constitutional convention to draft the new basic law.

3. Increasing state aid for local road construction from 15 to 17 million a year.

4. Appropriating $500,000 for re-habilitation of alcoholics in Pennsylvania. The Senate backed down on its plan to reduce the grant to $200,000, resulting in a major administration victory for one of Gov. John S. Fine's pet projects.

5. Restoring to 20½ million dollars a House proposal for state aid to the Pennsylvania State College. The Senate previously had insisted on a 20 million dollar maintenance grant.

In another development, the Senate unanimously confirmed Gov. John S. Fine's appointment of Arty. Gen. Robert E. Woods, Jr. to a vacancy on the State Superior Court bench.

Woods said he would stay on as attorney general until Sept. 28 to help Fine on legislation on the governor's desk before being sworn into the court post. It pays $23,000 a year.

"Legal Barrier"
At the same time, Fine disclosed he has given up consideration of Sen. Fred P. Hare (R-Somerset) for an appointment to the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

Fine said a "strong legal barrier"—a constitutional requirement that a lawmaker cannot take a state office during his elected term—prevented him from naming Hare to the $13,000 a year job left vacant by the expiration of the term of James I. Cayne, Pittsburgh.

Meanwhile, the governor signed an Assembly-passed plan to increase the borrowing capacity of the General State Authority from 235 millions to 330 millions.

Final legislative action on a constitutional convention referendum yesterday disposed of one of the last major issues which confronted the legislators.

November Referendum
The plan calls for a referendum in the Nov. 3 general election on whether the voters want the 79-year-old constitution revised. If the question is approved, the 1955 Legislature would set up machinery for a constitutional convention to draft the new basic law.

The Assembly also sent to the governor a proposal to add water, oil and religious articles to the list of the one per cent sales tax when it goes into effect Sept. 1.

The decision to work another day came after Speaker Charles C. Smith (R-Philadelphia) talked to Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, Senate

STATE TO VOTE ON REFERENDUM

HARRISBURG (P)—Pennsylvania's voters will decide at fall elections whether they want a new constitution or not under the terms of legislation now before Gov. John S. Fine.

The General Assembly finally approved yesterday a much-revised version of a plan backed by the governor to change the state's 79-year-old basic law.

The House passed the bill, 155-33, while the Senate approved it, 50-0. Last January, the governor asked the legislature to authorize an election of delegates in the November elections to meet in Harrisburg next year to revise the constitution.

While the plan was being shuffled around during the seven-month session, the House inserted a provision calling for a statewide referendum on the question. Later the Senate killed the original proposal but approved the referendum.

A House-Senate compromise added another feature to the referendum creating the 1955 Legislature to work out the machinery for election of delegates to a constitutional convention, in the event the voters approve a change.

He won the point after other legislative leaders uncovered a mixup in messages between the two chambers. A half dozen conference reports that required printing were tied up in the hands of message clerks.

103 AT CROUSE REUNION SUNDAY

Ninety descendants of the late Charles A. and Annie Motter Crouse and 13 visitors enjoyed the annual Crouse reunion held on Sunday at Crouse's Pool, near town, along the Littlestown-Taneytown road. Relatives were present from Columbia, Hanover, Littlestown, Kingsdale, York, Gettysburg, Taneytown, Md., and Woodbridge, Va. A family lunch took place at noon and in the evening, there was corn on the cob, watermelon and ice cream for all. Those in attendance enjoyed horseshoe pitching, softball, badminton and swimming.

A brief business meeting followed the luncheon, with greetings from the president, Walter P. Crouse, at whose place the reunion was held. Reports were heard from Mrs. Esther Crouse Feeser and Robert L. Crouse, Jr. It was decided to continue having both the annual summer picnic at the pool and the annual winter family party. A committee composed of Robert L. Crouse, chairman, Jack Crouse, Fred Crouse and Mrs. Kay Crouse Sentz was appointed to arrange for the 1953 winter party. Paul C. Crouse, Columbia, was selected as the new president of the clan and Mrs. Feeser and R. L. Crouse Jr. retain their offices of secretary and treasurer.

A rolling pin contest was conducted in the evening; the daughters and daughters-in-law of the late Mr. and Mrs. Crouse competed first and Mrs. Pauline Crouse, near Gettysburg, was the winner; the granddaughters and granddaughters-in-law, Mrs. Robert L. Crouse Jr., Littlestown, was the winner. The sons and sons-in-law also joined the contest, with John Crouse, Columbia, as the winner and of the grandsons and grandsons-in-law, Irvin Conover, Two Taverns, was winner.

Snarled Messages And Some Printing Difficulties Have Delayed Legislative Finale

HARRISBURG (P)—The General Assembly kept on going today, a day late, in its drive to end the long 1953 session.

Printing difficulties and a mixup on messages between the House and Senate thwarted plans to wind up the seven-month session at 2 p. m., yesterday.

Weary lawmakers kept up a fast pace until the early morning hours but gave up for the night for a final session today to dispose of final legislative odds and ends.

Leaders in both chambers, however, were generally agreed that the 140th regular session of the General Assembly would be completed by tonight.

When the gavel finally falls, the "official" time will still be 2 p. m., EST, Monday. Custodians in both chambers turned back the hands of the clock to maintain the fiction of "official" time.

Remaining Business
About a dozen joint House-Senate conference reports — compromises on legislation on which the two chambers failed to agree — constituted the remaining action facing the lawmakers.

They include:
1. The general appropriations bill to finance ordinary operations of the state government in the current two-year fiscal period. The compromise figure is $823,931,581 — a $66,000 increase over the version passed by the Senate and 21½ millions more than the House plan.

2. Fixing a 425 million dollar ceiling on state-aided new school construction financed by the sale of bonds. That's 100 millions more than the previous plan. The conference report also struck out a requirement for a referendum before a municipal school authority can build a school costing more than five per cent of the market value of real estate in the district.

3. Increasing state aid for local road construction from 15 to 17 millions a year.
Administration Victory
4. Appropriating $500,000 for rehabilitation of alcoholics in Pennsylvania. The Senate backed down on its plan to reduce the grant to $200,000, resulting in a major administration victory for one of

Gov. John S. Fine's pet projects.
5. Restoring to 20½ million dollars a House proposal for state aid to the Pennsylvania State College. The Senate previously had insisted on a 20 million dollar maintenance grant.

In another development, the Senate unanimously confirmed Gov. John S. Fine's appointment of Atty. Gen. Robert E. Woodside to a vacancy on the State Superior Court bench.

Woodside said he would stay on as attorney general until Sept. 28 to help Fine on legislation on the governor's desk before being sworn into the court post. It pays $23,000 a year.

"Legal Barrier"
At the same time, Fine disclosed he has given up consideration of Sen. Fred P. Hare (R-Somerset) for an appointment to the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

Fine said a "strong legal barrier" — a constitutional requirement that a lawmaker cannot take a state office during his elected term — prevented him from naming Hare to the $13,000 a year job left vacant by the expiration of the term of James J. Coyne, Pittsburgh.

Meanwhile, the governor signed an Assembly-passed plan to increase the borrowing capacity of the General State Authority from 235 millions to 330 millions.

Final legislative action on a constitutional convention referendum yesterday disposed of one of the last major issues which confronted the legislators.

November Referendum
The plan calls for a referendum in the Nov. 3 general election on whether the voters want the 79-year-old constitution revised. If the question is approved, the 1955 Legislature would set up machinery for a constitutional convention to draft the new basic law.

The Assembly also sent to the governor a proposal to add water bills and religious articles to the list of the one per cent sales tax when it goes into effect Sept. 1. The decision to work another day came after Speaker Charles C. Smith (R-Philadelphia) talked to Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, Senate

TWO HOMES

I passed them by the other night. Two homes in order trim. The smaller house was gay with light. The larger one was dim.

The smaller home with laughter rang And merry voices shrill. Within the larger no one sang And every room was still.

The larger house I looked upon Had all that wealth provides. I knew the smaller home was one Where happiness abides.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

STEADFASTNESS

There is something admirable in nearly every human being born into this world. Some qualities stand out above all others. There is one, however, that is a dominating force in that one possessing it. I name it as steadfastness.

There is something heroic about a steadfast person, one with an ideal, courage, and purpose. Such a one is dependable, looked up to, and respected. I once read of a man whom they called "Steadfast." Many thousands, I am sure, have secretly adopted that as a silent name, of which they in their hearts are deeply proud, for steadfastness is a feeder for many an inherited trait.

What a recommendation for any one to be steadfast and true. No written testimonial can compare with that which shines out from one's eyes, words, and deeds. I am reminded of a thought of Emerson's: "What you are speaks so loudly that I cannot hear what you say." The steadfast person does not need to give himself out in words. There he stands. Look him over. He's genuine! He's constant. Unwavering as he defends his principles.

John Buchan, "Lord Tweedsmuir" named one of his most interesting books "Mr. Steadfast." The author himself during a most interesting and useful life, could well have been named Mr. Steadfast. It is amazing how much he accomplished in a number of pursuits. Author, statesman, traveler, soldier, adventurer and much more. He was always welcomed among the great.

Every great friend carries about him a halo of steadfastness. There is no question as to where he stands or thinks. He towers. He attracts. People search him out. He is so rare in this troubled and fear-filled world. Hold to steadfastness of life and you will be a merited success, regardless of station or material ownership.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Talk Is So Fluid." Protected, 1953, George Matthew Adams Service

MARINES GET FIRST LOOK AT "DRAGON LADY"

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

WESTERN FRONT, Korea.—American Marines today got their first look at the Red Dragon Lady, the Communist siren with a loudspeaker.

She should have stayed at home. The Dragon Lady and a troupe of Chinese entertainers came out on a front-line outpost hill and staged a show for the Marines a few hundred yards away.

The Dragon Lady has been making front-line broadcasts for months. There may be more than one Dragon Lady doing the same thing along the front but the Marines have been hearing her regularly, singing Korean and Chinese songs and making propaganda broadcasts.

She had never been seen by Allied troops, so when she appeared this morning in the open, broadcasting with a microphone from the small hill, Marines dived for telescopes and field glasses.

Had No Glamor

They saw a slight, moon-faced girl dressed in a very faded khaki uniform. She wore a slouch cap pulled down over her long straight black hair.

Her shoes were the regulation canvas and rubber shoes worn by ordinary soldiers. If she had any glamor the Marines couldn't see it.

The Chinese put on an Oriental road show for the Marines.

They said that now that an armistice was signed and the fighting stopped they hoped the Americans would go home soon.

Personally, one Marine said, he thought it was a good idea.

"Long Live Peace"

The Chinese entertainers spread banners saying, "Long live peace." They put up another sign simply spelling "Peace."

"The band came out. They had what passed for a french horn and a trumpet," said Sgt. Ted Moyes, Manning, S. C.

They also had two small Chinese cymbals and an apparatus that looked like a tom-tom and was played the same way.

A couple of Chinese started waving long red and yellow banners and the band struck up something or other.

"The racket could be heard a mile," said Pfc. Carl Loker of York, Pa.

The Marines have another name for her but use the term Dragon Lady in polite society.

"That gag is ugly," said Pfc. Tommy Williams as he peered through a telescope. A line of men waited their turns at the telescope.

The Dragon Lady appeared to be about 21 years old. She was hardly five feet tall and her figure remained a mystery beneath her shapeless uniform.

She sang several Korean and Chinese songs in a soft, pleasant voice.

The Marines appreciatively knocked off work and listened.

It wasn't much of a show but they admitted it was highly unusual and the only show they had at the time.

Finally, the Dragon Lady sang the plaintive "Arirang," Korea's most popular song and then broadcast in her lisping Oriental voice, goodby, Americans, goodbye, goodbye.

Tuesday, the Joint Allied-Communist Military Armistice Commission held its first meeting at Panmunjom to begin supervision of the truce.

Return To Tokyo

Gen. Mark W. Clark, U. N. commander, completed signing copies of the truce document—those that had been taken north Monday and signed by the Red high command—and flew back to his Tokyo headquarters.

The U. N. Command armistice team, headed by Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, was disbanded and the members and staff headed for other assignments. Harrison went to Tokyo with Clark to resume his job as Clark's chief of staff.

The 2½-mile-wide buffer zone will be marked off on its southern and northern boundaries with marker signs at numerous intervals and with ground panels for aerial observation.

Demolish Bunkers

On the Western Front, the U. S. 1st Marine Division began pulling back its front-line units at 6:30 a. m.

Marines quit their bunkers to give up many hard-won positions in the neighborhood of Bunker Hill and Outpost Berlin.

They took with them all equipment and timber and in some cases demolished the bunkers with explosives.

Marines reported that unarmed Chinese wandered through the new buffer zone and "came close enough to our bunkers to ask for a cigarette."

"We didn't fraternize with them," the Marines said.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

STEADFASTNESS

There is something admirable in nearly every human being born into this world. Some qualities stand out above all others. There is one, however, that is a dominating force in that one possessing it. I name it as steadfastness.

There is something heroic about a steadfast person, one with an ideal, courage, and purpose. Such a one is dependable, looked up to, and respected. I once read of a man who they called "Steadfast." Many thousands, I am sure, have secretly adopted that as a silent name, of which they in their hearts are deeply proud, for steadfastness is a feeder for many an inherited trait.

What a recommendation for any one to be steadfast and true. No written testimonial can compare with that which shines out from one's eyes, words, and deeds. I am reminded of a thought of Emerson's: "What you are speaks so loudly that I cannot hear what you say." The steadfast person does not need to give himself out in words. He stands. Look him over. He's genuine! He's constant. Unwavering as he defends his principles.

John Buchan (Lord Tweedsmuir) named one of his most interesting books "Mr. Steadfast." The author himself during a most interesting and useful life, could well have been named Mr. Steadfast. It is amazing how much he accomplished in a number of pursuits. Author, statesman, traveler, soldier, adventurer and much more. He was always welcomed among the great.

Every great friend carries about him a halo of steadfastness. There is no question as to where he stands or thinks. He towers. He attracts. People search him out. He is so rare in this troubled and fear-filled world. Hold to steadfastness of life and you will be a merited success, regardless of station or material ownership.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Talk Is So Fluid." Protected, 1953, George Matthew Adams Service

MARINES GET FIRST LOOK AT "DRAGON LADY"

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

WESTERN FRONT, Korea (U)—American Marines today got their first look at the Red Dragon Lady, the Communist siren with a loudspeaker.

She should have stayed at home. The Dragon Lady and a troupe of Chinese entertainers came out on a front-line outpost hill and staged a show for the Marines a few hundred yards away.

The Dragon Lady has been making front-line broadcasts for months. There may be more than one Dragon Lady doing the same thing along the front but the Marines have been hearing her regularly, singing Korean and Chinese songs and making propaganda broadcasts.

She had never been seen by Allied troops, so when she appeared this morning in the open, broadcasting with a microphone from the small hill, Marines dived for telescopes and field glasses.

Had No Glamor
They saw a slight, moon-faced girl dressed in a very faded khaki uniform. She wore a slouch cap pulled down over her long straight black hair.

Her shoes were the regulation canvas and rubber shoes worn by ordinary soldiers. If she had any glamor the Marines couldn't see it.

The Chinese put on an Oriental road show for the Marines.

They said that now that an armistice was signed and the fighting stopped they hoped the Americans would go home soon.

Personally, one Marine said, he thought it was a good idea.

"Long Live Peace"
The Chinese entertainers spread banners saying, "Long live peace." They put up another sign simply spelling "Peace."

"The band came out. They had what passed for a French horn and a trumpet," said Sgt. Ted Moyes, Manning, S. C.

They also had two small Chinese cymbals and an apparatus that looked like a tom-tom and was played the same way.

A couple of Chinese started waving long red and yellow banners and the band struck up something or other.

"The racket could be heard a mile," said Pfc. Carl Loker of York, Pa.

The Marines have another name for her but use the term Dragon Lady in polite society.

"That bag is ugly," said Pfc. Tommy Williams as he peered through a telescope. A line of men waited their turns at the telescope.

The Dragon Lady appeared to be about 21 years old. She was hardly five feet tall and her figure remained a mystery beneath her shapeless uniform.

She sang several Korean and Chinese songs in a soft, pleasant voice.

The Marines appreciatively knocked off work and listened. It wasn't much of a show but they admitted it was highly unusual and the only show they had at the time.

Finally, the Dragon Lady sang the plaintive "Ariang," Korea's most popular song and then broadcast in her lisping Oriental voice, goodbye, Americans, goodbye, goodbye.

No Draft Letup Declares Hershey

SAN FRANCISCO (U)—Draft-eligible men are only "kidding themselves" if they think the Korean truce will change their status, the nation's selective service director says.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey predicted in a news conference yesterday that 18-year-olds, fathers and present 4Fs will be drafted within a year due to a manpower shortage.

He warned that the monthly draft quota may be doubled in that period.

Hershey said the armed forces have been drawing for three years on a pool of men accumulated between World War II and the Korean War. He said that reserve will be gone next year.

Good Road Trip Would Give Brooklyn Cause To Plan For World Series; Braves Win 13-0

By BEN PHLEGAR

AP Sports Writer

If the Brooklyn Dodgers play close to 500 ball on their 13-game Western road trip opening today in Chicago, the home office will be surely tempted to start having World Series tickets printed.

The Dodgers begin their third Western swing with a seven-game bulge over the Milwaukee Braves and the deep-rooted conviction that the only serious challenger between them and the pennant is fourth-place New York.

The Giants went West with high hopes, too, but they got off to a dreadful start last night in Milwaukee where the given-up-for-dead Braves buried them under a 13-0 count.

West Bad For Brooks

For the Dodgers, the West this year has proved just as wild and woolly as the storybooks claim. Brooklyn won only three out of eight games on its first journey West. On their second trip the Dodgers won six and lost eight. But it was on that second tour that the Dodgers finished up with three straight over Milwaukee and moved into the league lead they've held ever since.

The Giants can still recover from last night's beating. Unlike the Dodgers they've played good ball in the West this season, winning 14 out of 21. They have a winning edge in every park except Milwaukee, where they've now lost four out of six.

After the Braves dropped three of their four games in Brooklyn over the weekend, most observers figured they were finished. But against New York last night Charlie Grimm's lads tried to persuade the home folks it was all a mistake.

13th For Spahn

They clubbed four New York pitchers for 14 hits and made it easy for lefty Warren Spahn to register his 13th victory of the season and his 30th major league shutout.

Eddie Mathews hammered two home runs, the first one with the bases loaded during an eight-run uprising in the fourth inning. The blast was Mathews' second grand slam clout of the season and his night's work left him with 32 homers in 95 games, one short of Babe Ruth's pace in 1927, the year the Babe hit the all-time record of 60.

Everybody but Spahn contributed one hit and Mathews got three. Jim Hearn was the loser.

American Race Tight

The game was the only one in either league.

The Giants stick around Milwaukee for three more games on this visit. Brooklyn plays three in Chicago. Pittsburgh is in St. Louis for three and Philadelphia opens the tour with three in Cincinnati.

In the American league, where only eight games separate fourth-place Cleveland and first-place New York, the Yankees begin their home stand with three games against the Indians who have beaten them six in a row. Boston, fresh from a brilliant, 10-2 road trip, makes its bid for better things against second-place Chicago in Boston. St. Louis will be at Philadelphia and Detroit at Washington.

Trucks, Roberts Have Best Records

NEW YORK (AP)—Virgil (Fire) Trucks, one of the season's pitching surprises, and the always redoubtable Robin Roberts boast the lowest earned run averages in the major leagues today.

Earned run averages compiled by the Associated Press show that the 34-year-old Trucks, who has won eight in a row since joining the Chicago White Sox in mid-June, tops the American League with a 2.50 earned run mark. He has given up only 45 earned runs in 162 innings.

Roberts, 26-year-old ace of the Philadelphia Phillies, heads the National League with a 2.28 slate, on 56 earned runs in 221 frames.

TED WILLIAMS IS FREE TODAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Today, for the second time in eight years, the Marine Corps releases Ted Williams from active duty.

The 34-year-old jet pilot planned to return to Boston immediately to join the Red Sox. If the Boston management wants it that way, Williams could play in tonight's game against Chicago, although he says he is not in condition.

Williams, who is a captain in the Marine Corps' volunteer reserve, was called up May 1, 1952, and sent to Korea. He flew 38 missions before an ear and nose ailment sent him to the sidelines.

Doctors at the naval hospital in suburban Bethesda, Md., put him through a treatment program and yesterday gave him a clean bill of health. That freed him for immediate separation from active duty, although his term of duty normally would not expire until Oct. 1.

WALLACE, HENRY WIN LAST NIGHT

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Heavyweights Coley Wallace of New York and Clarence Henry of Los Angeles pounded out unanimous eight-round decisions in last night's outdoor card here.

Wallace, 209, made excellent use of a straight left jab and right cross to beat his heavier opponent, Sandy McPherson, 242, of Long Island, N. Y. Wallace cut up McPherson and staggered him several times but the Long Island boxer came back for more each time.

Henry, 188, dealt out considerable punishment in the first six rounds of his eight-rounder against Shirley Pemberton, also 188, of Philadelphia. Pemberton rallied in the seventh and eighth rounds, opening a cut over Henry's left eye and jarring the Los Angeles fighter with hard rights.

The card drew 1,411 who paid $3.056.

The Albany Senators lost to the Wilkes-Barre Barons 7-6, in the opening game of a doubleheader but came back to win the nightcap, 11-3.

The Triplets gave Ed Cereghino his cushion with four runs in the fifth inning at Scranton, all at the expense of big Ben Cardoni. Cereghino issued four hits and struck out four in notching his fifth triumph.

A pair of games to decide positions for the playoffs in the Softball League have been scheduled for Wednesday evening—the result of two deadlocks following games played Monday evening in the final regularly scheduled games. The most important will be the opening game between the Lentz Legion and Texas Lunch which will decide the fourth team to take part. The Glenn L. Bream Garage and VFW clash in the second game to decide the second and third place positions.

After positions are determined for the four top teams, the Shaughnessy playoffs will be held with the semi-final and final series each being the best-of-five. The title playoffs are listed to start Friday night.

It took the VFW two extra innings to defeat the Lentz Legion 7-5 in the thrilling and hard-fought opening game Monday. As the result of the loss the Legion dropped into a tie with the Texas Lunch and Wednesday's tilt will decide which team will take part in the playoffs.

After the Vets tallied a run in the opening inning, the Legion staged a four-run rally in the last of the third to take the lead. Safeties by McGlaughlin and Montfort, an error, two hit batsmen and a pair of runs produced the runs. The Vets picked up a run in the sixth on a double by Buckley and single by Greiner.

A two-run single by Buckley highlighted the three-run rally by the Vets in the top of the seventh. The Legion knotted the count in the last half when John McKenrick singled and Hess tripled with none out. Hess was left stranded. The Vets clinched the game in the ninth. Buckley walked and Greiner singled, both advancing on an error. Weaver's fly scored Buckley. Kebil walked and Dorm struck out but reached base when the ball shot past the catcher, Greiner scoring.

The fast-moving Glenn L. Bream garagemen encountered little trouble in routing the Eagles 18-2 in the second game, topping off their scoring with eight runs in the final frame.

George Fair paced the winners with a single, triple and homerun. Forsythe's homer with a runner aboard accounted for the Eagles' tallies in the sixth inning.

No Cage Floor For Farm Show Bldg.

HARRISBURG (AP)—A proposal to appropriate $20,000 for construction of a basketball floor at the huge Farm Show Building Arena here was defeated last night by the General Assembly.

The measure was eliminated by a joint House-Senate conference committee from a bill to spend $75,000 for the purchase of six acres of parking area for the buildings.

The grant was asked to permit state championship basketball games at the 8,000-seat arena.

BILL PROVIDES MORE BENEFITS

HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. John S. Fine today received for signature into law bills increasing minimum and maximum benefits for workmen's compensation and occupational diseases by $2.50 weekly.

The Senate completed final action on the House-passed legislation yesterday.

Meanwhile, the Senate killed in committee a third measure that would have given unemployed extra compensation benefits of $2.50 a week. Minimum benefits would have been boosted from $20 to $22.50 and maximum benefits from $30 to $32.50 weekly.

The administration programs call for compensation for partial disability at an increased rate from $21.25 to $23 weekly, and extension of eligibility from 300 to 350 weeks.

DEAN, SIMMONS ACCEPT PLACE IN HALL OF FAME

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y. (AP)—Dizzy Dean and Al Simmons are gone and the baseball brass has moved back to the city but two new shiny plaques hung in the National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum today.

Dean and Simmons were inducted formally yesterday at ceremonies held in front of the museum. Each accepted personally, calling it the greatest honor he ever received.

Old Diz, now a professional radio and TV man, glibly expressed his thanks to the baseball writers, officials and players who helped him.

Tribute To Connie
"The good Lord was good to me," he said. "Gave me a good right arm, strong back and a weak mind."

Simmons paid his respects to Connie Mack, under whom he played during his greatest years in the American League at Philadelphia.

"In the first nine years under Mr. Mack's guidance, I was a great ball player," he said. "In those nine years I hit .358. After I left Mr. Mack I was just another ball player. He is the greatest man I ever met in my life."

Caledonia Tops Local Little Leaguers 8-1 In Tournament; Littlestown Bows To Newville

Adams County's entries in the District 1, Section 4, Little League baseball tournament were knocked out of contention by dropping their opening games as the tournament got underway Monday at Chambersburg.

Newville, last year's champions, blanked Littlestown 4-0 in the tournament opener while Caledonia hit hard to lace the Gettysburg representatives 8-1 in an evening game.

Seven errors contributed heavily to the loss by the local Little League outfit.

Rosenberger, Caledonia hurler, was an outstanding performer with his fast ball and sharp curve. He fanned 14 and allowed but four hits.

Caledonia solved the offerings of McClellan and Aspers for 11 safeties and sewed up the verdict with five tallies in the fourth frame. Jimmy Townsend turned in the fielding

URGENT TASKS IN AUGUST

Fresh seed of several perennials may be sown now in a mulch or flat-shaded bed.

Plant nursery roots of Oriental poppies any time this month. Apply a post-harvest spray as soon as cherries are harvested to control leaf spot.

Spray grapes with Bordeaux mixture about 30 days before each variety is expected to begin ripening. This prevents black-rot.

Obtain a liberal supply of fertilizer for lawn building or repair. This work should be done soon and seed sown in early September.

Vigorously rooted strawberry plants may be set out this month. Keep the onion bed free from weeds and grass so the bulbs may mature normally.

Spray the basal leaves and vines of winter squashes with nicotine sulphate in soapy water to reduce borer ravages.

Sow seed for late fall around the middle of the month. Mulch with waste vegetation to prevent soil splashing later.

Final plantings of peas and bunch snap beans should be made before August 10 to 15.

August and early September is an excellent time to set out all kinds of evergreens, providing moisture is supplied until fall rains are adequate to sustain the foliage.

For cyclamen bulbs in early August for early winter flowers. Now is a good time to buy small specimens of gardenias for winter flowering indoors.

Make a liberal planting of carrots before the middle of the month to bury for all-winter use.

Our weeds and place them on the compost heap before they ripen their seeds.

Sow rye for winter cover and green manure wherever soils are otherwise likely to suffer from surface erosion or where more organic matter is needed next spring to deepen and lighten loams.

The beautiful Madonna lily must be started in August — the only lily requiring such early planting. Send the editor a stamped, addressed envelope for a free copy of our planting and care instructions.

If bramble fruits have not yet been pruned, cut out all the old or bearing canes and burn them at once.

Order peony roots for planting around September 15.

Bulbs of daffodils should be potted September 1 for Christmas blooming.

Watch for mildew on many food plants and almost all ornamentals. Superfine dusting sulphur is the common preventive and cure.

Dry snap beans winter, they are delicious. Try at least a sample lot of dried sweet corn — preferably Golden Bantam.

Kill as many corn ear worms as possible in August to reduce next year's worm population. Details on request to the editor.

Sow a bed of leaf lettuce under a flat shade, add some radishes around the edges.

Keep pullets thriving on a well-rounded ration.

Wage war on all livestock flies — they are costly enemies in terms of feed and animal comfort.

AUGUST - PLANTED STRAWBERRIES

There is considerable doubt in the minds of many gardeners and farmers about the practice of setting out strawberry plants in August. Is the idea workable at all? What are the advantages, if any, over spring planting? Is the same practice possible in late fall? "Clear this puzzle up," writes one farmer.

There are two arguments against August planting of strawberries: First, plants must be vigorously rooted, and such plants may be scarce at this time of the year; second, there must be a constant supply of available soil moisture until late fall to stimulate uniform and continued growth to enable the plants to enter winter with sufficient growth to withstand winter rigors.

Among the benefits are: (1) August-set strawberry plants bear a fairly good crop of berries the following spring, whereas the grower who sets out plants in the spring must wait more than an entire year for his first fruit.

At least one other and earlier crop, such as beans, peas, potatoes, or other vegetable, may be grown on the land and but minor soil working is necessary to prepare it for the strawberries; (3) Most farmers and gardeners have more spare time for planting in August than they do when spring tasks are multiplying; (4) Growers who already have strawberries under cultivation may utilize vigorous runner plants for August planting.

There can be no compromise on the moisture question — The plants must be kept adequately supplied with moisture whenever the soil tends toward dryness. Such irrigation may not be necessary if rainfall is heavy and the soil is mellow and deep (as it should be) with organic matter. But usually there are at least a few periods when the plants will require additional moisture and this should be supplied promptly and liberally.

Experience proves that the two-row hill system of spacing is advisable for August-set planting. This consists of double rows close together with plants spaced 5 to 7 or 8 inches in the rows. Staggering the plants is advisable. Of course, space between the double rows is determined by type of cultivation — wide for tractor or horse tillage, closer for hand cultivation.

So far as the editor's experience goes, plus reports from many readers throughout his part of the country, the Chesapeake variety is one of the best for August planting. If moisture requirements are supplied before winter and the rows are mulched in early December with loose straw to prevent alternate freezing and thawing, a fairly large yield of berries should be obtained next spring. And what is more desirable, these berries berries will likely be unusually large.

Many gardeners make ready for August planting of strawberries by putting runner plants in early summer. This consists of rooting a runner in a pot sunk beside the parent plant. When the runner is growing vigorously it is severed from the plant and thus grown separately. Such plants are ideal for setting out in August.

Because varieties of strawberries differ greatly in their behavior in this latitude, it is advisable to test varieties for their suitability for August planting. The Chesapeake is usually a safe bet for the main role.

FACTS ABOUT EVERGREENS

Strictly speaking, evergreens have no dormant season. Their foliage is giving off moisture around the year. Therefore, the best time for planting or transplanting differs widely from that of deciduous trees and shrubs (those that shed their leaves). Perhaps early April and a period extending from early August to the middle or even the latter part of September are the two most favorable times of the year for setting out new evergreens or moving established plants.

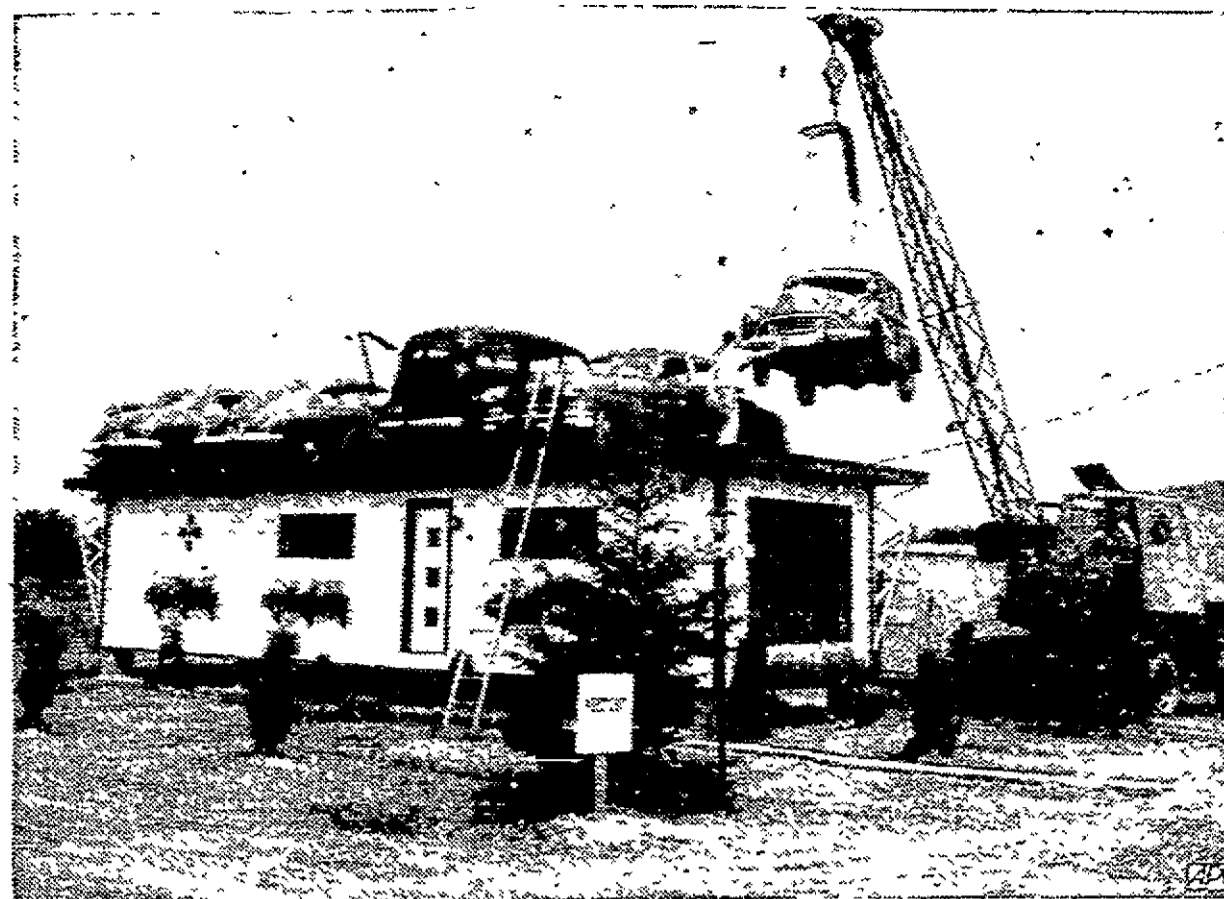

Too much emphasis can scarcely be placed on the importance of choosing the correct kind and type of evergreen for every particular location and role. Along every street and in the home grounds of numerous suburban and rural residences are seen examples of unwise choices of evergreens. Where a low-growing foundation specimen was wanted a towering pine of Norway spruce is now obscuring the windows. Where a slender columnar or pyramidal type was needed for accent at a corner there grows a low sort that miserably fails in its intended function.

But can't tall sorts be pruned back to desired size and shape?

The general answer is a positive no. A tall type of evergreen is often ruined by cutting it back. A low, spreading specimen can never be forced to grow tall. The solution lies in buying the right type of evergreen for the particular site and service in the first place.

Among genera and species which permit modest clipping and pruning to control shape are Common and Japanese Box, all the Cocos, the Nootka Cypress, hemlocks, most of the hollies, evergreen honeysuckle, and the Japanese yews.

Rhododendrons will fail in alkaline soils. Too, they resent too much sun. A northern exposure in a soil made sandy acid with hardwood forest loam is stressed. Even the alkalinizing effects of rainwater flowing into the location may eventually ruin the failure.

Because evergreens cannot be cut back severely after planting to offset interrupted root growth, such as is practiced when deciduous trees and shrubs are planted or moved it is necessary that transpiration loss of moisture from the foliage be kept at a minimum for several weeks. There are three main ways to afford this protection: (1) Plant in a fertile, mellow loam and keep the rooting soil moist by adequate watering; (2) Spray the foliage at least once a day with a fine mist of water; (3) Provide shade from direct sun.

Of course, the roots should be carefully burrapped when the plant is brought from the nursery and the root mass should be kept moist and shaded until planting time. Then the burrap should not be removed until the mass is lowered into the prepared hole. In other words, the roots must be protected from drying before, during and after planting operations.

No evergreens prefer poor soil, this despite the fact that pines are often seen growing in worn-out fields. Dig the hole deeper and wider in other dimensions than actually needed to accommodate the roots and fill in this surrounding space with rich garden loam.

Do not heap soil up into a cone around the base but leave the surface level or even slightly concave to catch and hold rain. Mulch with well rotted and strawy manure.

No Messages During Last Minute Rush

HARRISBURG, Pa. (P)—Members of the Pennsylvania Senate were busier than a pack of peavers last night rushing through last-minute legislation so the State Assembly could adjourn.

Despite the rush, however, the Senate Rules Committee found time to see that this sign was posted in the Senate barber shop, also hurried by a last-minute rush:

BOTH HOUSES NEAR ACTION ON MONEY BILLS

By HARRY SNYDER

WASHINGTON (P)—Both branches of Congress today geared for action on President Eisenhower's emergency immigration bill, perhaps the last major obstacle to adjournment of Congress, which is scheduled for this weekend.

In the House, Rep. Walter (D-Pa.) prepared to wage an all-out effort against the proposal to admit within the next three years 240,000 refugees and others, in addition to regular immigration quotas.

Republican leaders, however, predicted they could muster enough votes to pass the bill, on the White House list of "must" legislation for this session.

Work Out Compromise

The Senate version would authorize admission of 209,000 persons over three years. Eisenhower originally asked for authority to admit 240,000 in two years. He said the measure would be a valuable cold war weapon by providing asylum for Iron Curtain refugees.

Two of the chief opponents have been Walter and Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.), co-authors of the comprehensive immigration bill passed last year over ex-President Truman's veto. McCarran and administration leaders, however, have worked out a compromise and the Nevada says that while he will still vote against the bill, he will not seek to delay it any considerable time.

Interior Bill Passes

Just one other item on the "must" list appears to be in trouble, and in such serious difficulties that House Speaker Joseph Martin (R-Mass.) said yesterday passage is doubtful. That is the administration's request for postal rate

KANSAS CITY (P)—A downtown street is being resurfaced, and city workmen hung "No parking" signs on parking meters to keep cars out of the way yesterday.

They ran out of signs and dug into their winter gear. So some meters bore this notice: "No parking till snow is removed."

Yesterday's temperature reached 99 degrees.

INCOME OF 22 MILLIONS

PHILADELPHIA (P)—The Atlantic Refining Co. and subsidiaries have released a preliminary report showing a net income for the first six months of 1953 of $22,600,000. The income per share of common stock is $2.45. Earnings for the same period last year were $21,934,000 net income and $2.35 per share of common stock.

hikes of about 240 million dollars a year.

That measure has been blocked in the House Post Office Committee, which arranged another closed session today to consider it. The Senate has taken no action. If the GOP leadership should press it, the proposal might force Congress to delay adjournment.

Seven of the dozen regular money bills required to finance the government if the current fiscal year are still in the congressional machinery, but their clearance by the weekend seems assured, barring unforeseen disagreements.

The Interior Department appropriation, carrying $433,561,550, was sent to the White House by the Senate last night.

URGENT TASKS IN AUGUST

Fresh seed of several perennials may be sown now in a mulch or flat-shaded bed.

Plant nursery roots of Oriental poppies any time this month. Apply a post-harvest spray as soon as cherries are harvested to control leaf spot.

Spray grapes with Bordeaux mixture about 30 days before each variety is expected to begin ripening. This prevents black-rot.

Obtain a liberal supply of fertile loam for lawn building or repair. This work should be done soon and seed sown in early September.

Vigorously rooted strawberry plants may be set out this month. Keep the onion bed free from weeds and grass so the bulbs may mature normally.

Spray the basal leaves and vines of winter squashes with nicotine sulphate in soapy water to reduce borer ravages.

Sow seed for late kale around the middle of the month. Mulch with waste vegetation to prevent soil splashing later.

Final plantings of peas and bunched snap beans should be made before August 10 to 15.

August and early September is an excellent time to set out all kinds of evergreens, providing moisture is supplied until fall rains are adequate to sustain the foliage.

Pot cyclamen bulbs in early August for early winter flowers. Now is a good time to buy small specimens of gardenias for winter flowering indoors.

Make a liberal planting of carrots before the middle of the month to bury for all-winter use. Cut weeds and plant them on the compost heap before they ripen their seeds.

Sow rye for winter cover and green manure wherever soils are otherwise likely to suffer from surface erosion or where more organic matter is needed next spring to deepen and lighten loams.

The beautiful Madonna lily must be started in August — the only lily requiring such early planting. Send the editor a stamped, addressed envelope for a free copy of our planting and care instructions.

If bramble fruits have not yet been pruned, cut out all the old or bearing canes and burn them at once.

Order peony roots for planting around September 15.

Bulbs of daffodils should be potted September 1 for Christmas blooming.

Watch for mildew on many food plants and almost all ornamentals. Superfine dusting sulphur is the common preventive and cure.

Dry snap beans winter; they are delicious. Try at least a sample lot of dried sweet corn — preferably Golden Bantam.

Kill as many corn ear worms as possible in August to reduce next year's worm population. Details on request to the editor.

Sow a bed of leaf lettuce under a slat shade, add some radishes around the edges.

Keep pullets thriving on a well-rounded ration.

Wage war on all livestock flies—they are costly enemies in terms of feed and animal comfort.

AUGUST - PLANTED STRAWBERRIES

There is considerable doubt in the minds of many gardeners and farmers about the practice of setting out strawberry plants in August. Is the idea workable at all? What are the advantages, if any, over spring planting? Is the same practice possible in late fall? "Clear this puzzle up," writes one farmer.

There are two arguments against August planting of strawberries: First, plants must be vigorously rooted, and such plants may be scarce at this time of the year; second, there must be a constant supply of available soil moisture until late fall to stimulate uniform and continued growth to enable the plants to enter winter with sufficient growth to withstand winter rigors.

Among the benefits are: (1) August-set strawberry plants bear a fairly good crop of berries the following spring, whereas the grower who sets out plants in the spring must wait more than an entire year for his first fruit; (2) At least one other and earlier crop, such as beans, peas, potatoes or other vegetable, may be grown on the land and but minor soil working is necessary to prepare it for the strawberries; (3) Most farmers and gardeners have more spare time for planting in August than they do when spring tasks are multiplying; (4) Growers who already have strawberries under cultivation may utilize vigorous runner plants for August planting.

There can be no compromise on the moisture question. The plants must be kept adequately supplied with moisture whenever the soil tends toward dryness. Such irrigation may not be necessary if rainfall is heavy and the soil is mellow and deep (as it should be) with organic matter. But usually there are at least a few periods when the plants will require additional moisture and this should be supplied promptly and liberally.

Experience proves that the two-row hill system of spacing is advisable for August-set planting. This consists of double rows close together with plants spaced 5 to 7 or 8 inches in the rows. Staggering the plants is advisable. Of course, space between the double rows is determined by type of cultivation — wide for tractor or horse tillage, closer for hand cultivation.

So far as the editor's experience goes, plus reports from many readers throughout his part of the country, the Chesapeake variety is one of the best for August planting. If moisture requirements are supplied before winter and the rows are mulched in early December with loose straw to prevent alternate freezing and thawing, a fairly large yield of berries should be obtained next spring. And what is more desirable, these berries will likely be unusually large.

Many gardeners make ready for August planting of strawberries by potting runner plants in early summer. This consists of rooting a runner in a pot sunk beside the parent plant. When the runner is growing vigorously it is severed from the plant and thus grown separately. Such plants are ideal for setting out in August.

Because varieties of strawberries differ greatly in their behavior in this latitude, it is advisable to test varieties for their suitability for August planting. The Chesapeake is usually a safe bet for the main role.

FACTS ABOUT EVERGREENS

Strictly speaking, evergreens have no dormant season. Their foliage is giving off moisture around the year. Therefore, the best time for planting or transplanting differs widely from that of deciduous trees and shrubs (those that shed their leaves). Perhaps early April and a period extending from early August to the middle or even the latter part of September are the two most favorable times of the year for setting out new evergreens or moving established plants.

Too much emphasis can scarcely be placed on the importance of choosing the correct kind and type of evergreen for every particular location and role. Along every street and in the home grounds of numerous suburban and rural residences are seen examples of unwise choices of evergreens. Where a low-growing foundation specimen was wanted a towering pine of Norway spruce is now obscuring the windows. Where a slender columnar or pyramidal type was needed for accent at a corner there grows a low sort that miserably fails in its intended function.

But can't fall sorts be pruned back to desired size and shape? The general answer is a positive warning: A fall type of evergreen is often ruined by cutting it back. A low, spreading specimen can never be forced to grow tall. The solution lies in buying the right type of evergreen for the particular site and service in the first place.

Among genera and species which permit modest clipping and pruning to control shape are Common and Japanese Box, all the Cotonasters, the Nootka Cypress, hemlocks, most of the hollies, evergreen honeysuckle, and the Japanese yews.

Rhododendrons will fail in alkaline soils. Too, they resent too much sun. A northern exposure in a soil made safely acid with hardwood forest loam is sired. Even the alkalizing effects of rainwater flowing into the location may eventually invite failure.

Because evergreens cannot be cut back severely after planting to offset interrupted root growth, such as is practiced when deciduous trees and shrubs are planted or moved, it is necessary that transpiration (loss of moisture from the foliage) be kept at a minimum for several weeks. There are three main ways to afford this protection: (1) Plant in a fertile, mellow loam and keep the rooting soil moist by adequate watering; (2) Spray the foliage at least once a day with a fine mist of water; (3) Provide shade from direct sun.

Of course, the roots should be carefully burlapped when the plant is brought from the nursery and the root mass should be kept moist and shaded until planting time. Then the burlap should not be removed until the mass is lowered into the prepared hole. In other words, the roots must be protected from drying before, during and after planting operations.

No evergreens prefer poor soil, this despite the fact that pines are often seen growing in worn-out fields. Dig the hole deeper and larger in other dimensions than actually needed to accommodate the roots and fill in this surrounding space with rich garden loam.

Do not heap soil up into a cone around the base but leave the surface level or even slightly concave to catch and hold rain. Mulch with well rotted and straw manure.

Communists Hold Ace Card For Bargaining With U.N. When Peace Talks Start

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON — That the Communists would have an ace card in bargaining with the United Nations when peace talks start in Korea was apparent. But what they needed to get out of it, and what they needed to get out of it, can only be guessed at. There has been a lot of guessing.

One thing is certain. Because they hold North Korea, they have an ace card in the diplomatic poker game—the peace talks—which began within 48 days of the signing of the truce.

The United States and the United Nations want both parts of Korea unified. They didn't feel the U.S. was in a position to "take" North Korea from the Chinese or the North Koreans.

What they "couldn't" have the Chinese yield to Korea the U.S. now ask the Chinese to give up. The U.S. would like to see the Chinese withdraw from North Korea.

This would be a "request" for the Chinese to withdraw from North Korea. The Chinese could hardly be expected to grant it unless they got in return something they valued more than North Korea.

In Japan, soldiers accompanied by dependents and unmarried soldiers would serve 36 months, while soldiers whose dependents do not accompany them will serve 24 months.

In the past, rotation has been on a system of "points" for "constructive" service.

U. N. Membership
Here in Washington, there has been a belief that the Chinese might agree to withdraw from Korea if, among other things, they were admitted to membership in the United Nations.

But this country, backing Nationalist China, would not admit a U. N. member, and consequently opposed membership for Red China. Both houses of Congress have expressed opposition to such a move.

And Secretary of State Dulles has said the question of Red China's membership in the U. N. has no place in the peace talks about Korea. That might seem to slam the door on China's chances.

Not necessarily. Even with the United States opposed, it may yet turn out that Red China will get into the U. N. That problem could be handled at the U. N. instead of at the peace talks.

Troops Must Leave
Since there can be no unification of Korea until the Chinese and the United Nations withdraw their troops from all Korea, the peace talks could limit themselves to the question of withdrawal only.

After the foreign troops leave, the Koreans—North and South—could hold a national election to choose a single government. But this is only if such a complicated problem that solution of it seems unlikely soon.

For one thing, the South Koreans far outnumber the North Koreans.

Notified Son Killed In Korea Last Friday

HARTFORD, Conn. (P)—Hazen J. Campbell, West Hartford movie theater manager, sat close to his office radio Sunday night listening for word of the Korean truce.

When it came, he interrupted the movie and joyfully announced the armistice.

Last night Campbell received a Defense Department telegram. His son Raymond, a Marine, had been killed in Korean fighting last Friday.

NEW ROTATION SYSTEM SET UP

TOKYO (P)—The U. S. Army today announced a new rotation system which will make the normal tour for all soldiers in Korea 16 months beginning Oct. 1.

The tour for U. S. soldiers in the Philippines will be 24 months.

Married soldiers in Okinawa who have their families with them and unmarried soldiers will serve 30 months, and personnel in Okinawa whose dependents do not accompany them will serve 20 months.

In Japan, soldiers accompanied by dependents and unmarried soldiers will serve 36 months, while soldiers whose dependents do not accompany them will serve 24 months.

In the past, rotation has been on a system of "points" for "constructive" service.

assurances that if the postwar political conference breaks down, the 16 United Nations with forces in Korea "are determined to fight with us jointly in a complete unity of purpose." Rhee made the statement in a message to his nation.

Polish and Czech officers reportedly were traveling from Peking, the Red China capital, to Panmunjom, where they will take up posts on the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission. Swiss and Swedish delegates, now in Tokyo, were due within 48 hours.

The commission will police the truce.

4. Gen. Mark W. Clark and Lt. Gen. William C. Harrison Jr., senior Allied truce delegate, returned to Tokyo from Korea. Before leaving, Clark finished signing the truce documents. The Allied armistice negotiating team has been disbanded and Harrison returns to his old job as Clark's chief of staff.

As staff officers agreed on plans for exchanging prisoners, the U. N. Command began moving North Korean and Chinese prisoners to the mainland from Koje and Cheju islands off South Korea.

About 3,600 Koreans and 1,200 Chinese were in the first group. The prisoners will be held at Yongdopong on the outskirts of Seoul and at Munsan, the Allied prisoner of war command announced.

Fear Red Trouble
Precautions were being taken to head off possible Red demonstrations such as occurred during the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners last April.

Col. L. C. Friedersdorff, head of the U. N. team on the military armistice committee for prisoner exchange, said the Reds reported they held about 500 sick and wounded prisoners. They gave no break down by nationality.

The U. N. holds about 3,000 disabled Communist prisoners.

Bryan, a husky general who once led the 24th Division in Korea, told newsmen the first session of the Military Armistice Commission was devoted to administrative details, including ways to get joint observer teams quickly into the buffer zone dividing U. N. and Communist armies.

Bryan said "As far as I know," no armistice violations have come up.

Bryan's aides on the commission are a British general, a Thai general, a U. S. Navy admiral and an American Air Force general.

Communists Hold Ace Card For Bargaining With U.N. When Peace Talks Start

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)— That the Communists wanted truce in Korea was apparent. But why they wanted it, and what they hoped to get out of it, can only be guessed at. There has been a lot of guessing.

One thing is certain. Because they hold North Korea, they have an ace card in the diplomatic poker game—the peace talks—which begin within 90 days of the signing of the truce.

The United States and the United Nations want both parts of Korea unified. They didn't feel they could do it themselves by taking North Korea from the Chinese on the battlefield.

What they couldn't make the Chinese yield by force they will now ask the Chinese to give up by request, since there can be no unification unless the Red Chinese withdraw from North Korea.

This would be quite a request. The Chinese could hardly be expected to grant it unless they got in return something they prized more than North Korea. It may be wishful thinking that they would consider it at all.

U. N. Membership?

Here in Washington there has been a belief that the Chinese might agree to unification of Korea if, among other things, they were admitted to membership in the United Nations.

But this country, backing Nationalist China, which is a U. N. member, has consistently opposed membership for Red China. Both houses of Congress have expressed opposition to such a move.

And Secretary of State Dulles has said the question of Red China's membership in the U. N. has no place in the peace talks about Korea. That might seem to slam the door on China's chances.

Not necessarily. Even with the United States opposed, it may yet turn out that Red China will get into the U. N. That problem could be handled at the U. N. instead of at the peace talks.

Troops Must Leave

Since there can be no unification of Korea until the Chinese—and the United Nations—withdraw their troops from all Korea, the peace talks could limit themselves to the question of withdrawal only.

After the foreign troops leave, the Koreans—North and South—could hold a national election to choose a single government. But this by itself is such a complicated problem that solution of it seems unlikely soon.

For one thing, the South Koreans far outnumber the North Koreans

now. If the election were between the forces of South Korean President Syngman Rhee and pro-Communist North Koreans, there would be much doubt about the outcome of all-Korea elections.

Red Infiltration

With the Chinese forces withdrawn and South Koreans elected to control of the country, what would be the fate of those North Korean Communists who had been faithful allies of Red China and enemies of South Korea?

Would Rhee permit them to roam around, reorganizing their party, first in North Korea, then infiltrating South Korea, and eventually trying to take over the country once more by force or subversion?

If China abandoned its Korean Communist allies to the mercies of South Korea, it would lose face with its Communist friends in the rest of Asia. It could, of course, give the Korean Communists asylum in China.

Eventually these Korean Reds could filter back into Korea, set up an underground, and work for the overthrow of Rhee or, after his death, of his friends in control of the government.

Since the Chinese haven't tipped their hand yet, there can be nothing but guessing until they do.

Notified Son Killed In Korea Last Friday

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Hugh J. Campbell, West Hartford movie theater manager, sat close to his office radio Sunday night listening for word of the Korean truce.

When it came, he interrupted the movie and joyfully announced the armistice.

Last night Campbell received a Defense Department telegram. His son Raymond, a Marine, had been killed in Korean fighting last Friday.

May Bar Neutrals Who Sat Out Korean War From Confab

By EDWARD E. BOMAR
WASHINGTON, July 28.—The United States may press for a United Nations delegation to the Korean peace conference made up exclusively from among the 17 nations which actually fought the Communists.

This was reported under consideration today after Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) told the Senate "we must not allow neutrals who sat out three years of war" to have a decisive voice in the peace talks, due to begin within 90 days.

Authorities said Secretary of State Dulles and his principal advisers, with the armistice signing out of the way, have just started a close study of plans for the conference. One of the proposals up for decision is whether to try to limit the delegation to the nations which made direct military contributions.

Job For Assembly
The U. N. General Assembly has been summoned to meet Aug. 17 to receive a formal report from the U. N. Command on the Korean armistice. It will have the responsibility of deciding the site for the political conference with the Communists to try to work out a permanent Korean peace settlement. It will also consider an agenda and composition of the U. N. delegation.

Even if the delegation should be limited to those nations which took part in the fighting, the United Nations in Japan.

States might find itself in the minority.

Senators said Dulles told a Senate foreign relations subcommittee in closed session recently that one of his gravest problems is now to prevent this country from being outvoted by nations which contributed only about 5 per cent of the fighting forces, not counting South Korea.

Would Object To Russia
Lawmakers said he conceded he had not yet found any satisfactory formula.

Dulles has said the United States and South Korea certainly will be represented on the U. N. side. He has indicated that the United States would object to Soviet Russia as a U. N. representative as a result of Moscow's supply role in the Korean affair. U. S. diplomats reportedly favor a small delegation. Beyond that there have been few hints as to the administration intentions.

MOTHER AND 4 CHILDREN DIE IN HOME BLAZE

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—A mother and four of her children perished early today in a fire that trapped them in their one-story wooden house in a remote section of Worcester.

The father and two other children escaped.

The dead are Mrs. Barbara A. F. Thoren; John, 3; Elaine, 6; Richard, 11; and Joyce, 15.

The mother's body was found in the kitchen near the back door, her arms tightly clasping the body of her 3-year-old child.

The father, Chester, suffered burned and cut hands. Judith, 15, Joyce's twin, and Stephen, 13, were not injured.

Cause of the fire was not determined immediately, but Judith and Stephen said there had been a fire in a living room pillow "earlier" in the evening. How much earlier they could not say in their hysterical condition.

Extinguished Pillow Fire
The children said the family extinguished the pillow fire and they all went back to bed.

The father said he was asleep on the living room couch when he smelled smoke. He told authorities he ran out the back door, ran around to the front, breaking windows as he went, and tried to get in the front door. His entrance was blocked by the flames, he said.

Judith and Stephen said they last saw their mother apparently making her way out the back door with baby John in her arms. They said they thought their mother got out house, probably for the other children.

WANTS U. S. TO HELP COLLEGES TRAIN EXPERTS

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Dean Eric A. Walker of the Pennsylvania State College has called on the government to help colleges train atomic scientists.

Walker told the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy yesterday the government ought to release reactor data, now secret, to colleges and make larger quantities of fissionable materials available to spur college training of atomic engineers.

Without the government's help, Walker told the congressmen, the development of atomic energy will be slowed down. He said it is hard to teach young men without the proper information or facilities.

"Engineering is getting more and more difficult," Walker testified. "The bright boys we need just won't stay interested if we can't teach them right."

"When I say bright boys I mean the upper 10 per cent of our population. To make a good engineer a boy should be good in mathematics, English and physics. Not many boys are good in all three."

Must Want Training
"And if you find one good in all three, he must have something more. He must really want to be an engineer, he must want it, not his father or grandfather."

About 100,000 young men each year can fill these requirements, Walker estimated. But about half of them won't go to college. Half of the remaining 50,000 can't afford college.

The 40,000 who do go to college and who would make good engineers don't all study engineering, Walker said. So instead of the 50,000 engineers the nation needs, it gets less than 20,000 a year.

What it all means, Walker said, is that "we have to be very, very careful of our talented young manpower."

Dean Walker is building a 250-thousand dollar atomic reactor at Penn State to give students facilities to do some real research while studying engineering. The college has put up the money.

COURT HOUSE FILING COSTS MAY BE RAISED

HARRISBURG (AP)—Court house filing fees in all counties except Allegheny and Philadelphia would be raised under legislation in the hands of Gov. John S. Fine today.

Filing of legal papers with probate clerks, registers of wills and clerks of courts are affected primarily by the boosts. Most are a flat one dollar increase, but some vary according to the service rendered.

Also passed by the House yesterday was a measure that would cut state aid to summer recreational programs by $400,000 a biennium. The proposal would stop state aid for instructors' salaries in such classes as bridge playing, skiing and swimming. In addition, minimum salaries of college trained instructors would be cut from $2.50 to $2 an hour.

Other bills passed by the House and sent to the governor would: Permit temporary restraint of persons alleged to be mentally ill. Authorize the presentation of petitions to the court to have the question of creating union school districts placed on the local ballot. Pay corporers in high class counties an additional $25 for each inquest after the first 100.

AUKER ATTACKS BORROWING BILL

HARRISBURG (AP)—The constitutionality of a new law increasing the borrowing capacity of the General State Authority by 95 million dollars was under attack today.

The point was raised by Rep. Charles A. Auker (R-Blair) shortly after Gov. John S. Fine signed the measure into law yesterday. The new statute raises the borrowing capacity of the state's building agency from 235 to 330 million dollars.

"Possibly some one has gone too far and too fast," Auker told the House. "It's quite possible that it's constitutionality will be questioned in the courts."

The measure was approved by the House 206-9 on Saturday although reporters only counted 13 representatives in their seats. Auker said he understood the GSA bill would not be acted upon until Monday when he left the capitol Friday night.

CENSOR COMIC BOOKS
READING, Pa., Police Chief Frank A. Sweeney of Jenkintown is called for stricter censorship of certain types of comic books and more controls over penny artists.

Sweeney made the opening address yesterday to some 400 delegates attending the opening of a three-day annual convention of the Pennsylvania Chiefs of Police.
